How to play. Everyone holds one wrapped gift. Read the story aloud. On every LEFT or RIGHT, pass your gift one person that way. Keep what you're holding at the end.
